Webinar: Central banks, inflation, and the rate hike gamble

Join ING s economists and strategists for a live webinar on 9 September to discuss the September round of Federal Reserve, European Central Bank, Bank of England and Bank of Japan meetings. Sign up here

The world's major central banks are edging closer to further rate hikes this month as the economic outlook improves and inflation concerns prevail. That comes at a particularly perilous time for the global bond market, as monetary policy combines with debt sustainability concerns to push yields ever higher.

Join ING's economists and strategists for a live webinar as they look ahead to the September round of Federal Reserve, European Central Bank, Bank of England and Bank of Japan meetings. You'll learn:

- Why the Fed is edging towards a rate hike this month – and why the data doesn't necessarily back it up
- How the ECB's September rate hike could be the last
- Why the bar remains high for a Bank of England rate hike – and why rate cuts are still likely in 2027
- Whether the Bank of Japan will pick up the pace of monetary tightening this month
- The impact on FX and the outlook for major currency pairs

Details

Date: Wednesday 9 September

Time: 1430 BST/1530 CEST/0930 ET

The webinar will last 45 minutes, including a Q&A session at the end.

The event will take place online and the waiting room will open 60 minutes ahead of the scheduled start time.

A joining link will be emailed following registration and you will receive a reminder email 10 minutes before the scheduled start time.
